

Ever find yourself pondering the intricacies of the human brain? Curious about what makes you, well, you? We've got an opportunity that not only quenches your curiosity but also puts your knowledge to the test in an exciting and interactive setting!

 Participate in the Michigan Brain Bee!

Mark your calendar for Saturday, March 8th, 2024 as we invite you to embark on a thrilling journey into the world of neuroscience. The Michigan Brain Bee, hosted by the University of Michigan, is not your ordinary competition – it's a live Q & A showdown designed to spark your interest in the incredible field of neuroscience.

 What's the Brain Bee?

Picture this: High school students engaged in a battle of wits, exploring topics like intelligence, memory, emotions, sensations, and more. The competition dives deep into the realms of stress, aging, sleep, and disorders such as addiction, Alzheimer's, and other neurological diseases. Get ready to be captivated!

 Why Participate?

Aside from the thrill of competition, the rewards are nothing short of impressive. The champion of the Michigan Brain Bee walks away with $250 and a $1600 travel stipend to represent the state at the National Brain Bee in April 2025. But that's not all – second and third-place winners snag cash prizes of $150 and $50, respectively. Even if you don't snag the top spots, every second and third-round competitor receives an honorable mention, a certificate of participation, a cool sticker, and a standout addition to your college applications!
